Dear Mr. Jackson:

I have read with a great deal of interest the notes on the Central Intelligence Agency and I thank you for so kindly sending them with your letter of November 18th.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Mr. William H. Jackson
Office of the Director

The Honorable Joseph C. Grew

Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Grew:

At the end of our very enjoyable talk yesterday, I forgot to give you the memorandum that I mentioned. Enclosed are the notes to which I referred. They were somewhat hastily prepared as a basis for my discussion with General Smith and others in regard to the functions and responsibilities of the Central Intelligence Agency. In view of your interest in the Agency, I thought these notes might prove useful in giving a general picture of its mission.

With best personal regards,

Very sincerely,

S/- dir - Mr. E. A. Tamm
